PRESBYTERIANS IN KENTUCKY SHOW A WONDERFUL GROWTH

Report of the Synod of Kentucky Shows Most Remarkable Progress of Denomination in Many Years.

The Synod of Kentucky of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. has just concluded its annual session at Frankfort. This Synod reported a record-breaking year for the Presbyterian church. The membership increase last year was the largest on record, the total amount reported being 1,722,361. There were 85,000 additions on confession and the amount contributed for benevolences for the year ending March 31, 1921, was $11,208,832 and for all purposes more than $47,000,000.

There are in Kentucky 14,572 Presbyterians, an increase of 2 per cent. over the membership reported last year. On this increase a large part was due to evangelistic work, the number of those received on confession being 29 per cent better than normal and 23 per cent better than last year. The number of Sunday school students in the Presbyterian churches grew during the year from 11,639 to 12,512, a 7 per cent increase.

Kentucky Presbyterians contributed to denominational work $83,424, 79 per cent. better than their average; $271,797 to local church support, an increase of 55 per cent. over last year. The average giving for all purposes from 1915 to 1919 was $357,626. This year it jumped to $418,187. The per capita contributions of Kentucky Presbyterians in the same period jumped from $18.96 to $28.69. The Presbytery of Ebenezer, which was host to the Synod, reported a 53 per cent. increase in number of members received on confession over normal, 6 per cent. net increase in numbers of members, 127 per cent. increase in contributions to denominational benevolences and 167 per cent. increase in giving to local church support. The per capita of this presbytery for denominational work is second only to Louisville. The remarkable increase in giving and other activities in Kentucky is ascribed to the spirit and methods of the New Era Movement, the forward movement of the Presbyterian church.

PRISONERS SENTENCED ON LAST DAY OF COURT

Three Prisoners Under Age to Go to State Reform School—One Goes to State Penitentiary for Year.

Among the many duties of the court on the last day of the term Saturday was the sentencing of prisoners convicted and punished by confinement in the state institutions. Judge Newell performed these duties Saturday morning by sentencing four such prisoners.

Albert Mallory, convicted of house breaking, George Wright and Homer Kapp, convicted of uttering a forged check, and Jesse Snapp convicted of grand larceny, were the prisoners sentenced. The first three were sentenced to two years in the State Reform school as they were all under age and Snapp was sentenced to one year in the state penitentiary. Snapp was given the lowest penalty upon recommendation of the District Prosecutor upon advice of Rev. Chaplin, Presbyterian minister of Washington, whose automobile Snapp had taken.

In sentencing the boys under age to the Reform School, Judge Newell gave them some good advice and urged that they endeavor to learn a trade in that institution so that they would be ready to accomplish something for themselves when they come out.

"Sales of tobacco here is now almost as high as they were in 1919. Average today was 36 cents. Many piles sold for one hundred dollars. Some sold for 90 cents, 80, 75, and 70."

SURVEY BODY RECOMMENDS FIRST PROPOSED AMENDMENT

Take the Schools Out of Politics and Thereby Make Great Advance, Says Educational Survey Body.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 15. — Selection of a competent State Superintendent of Public Instruction under the present method of political nomination and election "is an accident," the Kentucky Educational Survey Commission declared in a report on the subject made to Governor Edwin P. Morrow and approved by him.

"Educators of proven ability cannot ordinarily afford, either professionally or financially, to stand on party platforms, submit to party pressure or go through partisan elections," the commission said.

"A properly constituted State Board of Education, with adequate and appropriate powers, including the power to select the state superintendent, is essential to the proper development of our public schools," the commission says in the report.

"Such a board will take the schools out of politics, put the state superintendent on a professional basis, and will, through the state superintendent vitalize our entire public school system. Wise and aggressive leadership is our greatest single educational need. It is greater than the need of better trained teachers; greater than the need of more money, however great these may be. But, wise and aggressive educational leadership is impossible in Kentucky, unless the people ratify amendment number one."

One of the great needs of Kentucky is some means of equalizing the length of school terms and establishment of at least one standard rural high school in each of the fifty-two counties which has no high school, the commission declares in a report on conditions which led to submission to the people at the November election of a Constitutional amendment which would provide for a change in the method of distributing ten per cent. of the state school fund. The report of the commission, which is headed by Dr. W. A. Ganfield, president of Centro College, Danville, was approved by Governor Morrow yesterday.

The report recites the history of school funds of the state, showing how with the exception of $124,000 interest on the permanent school fund the four million dollars annually distributed among the schools comes from taxation. This fund is distributed on the basis of $6.10 for each child of school age in the state.

When a Denial is Not a Denial

In today's issues of the local Democratic newspapers, Mr. J. J. Owens, Clerk of the Mason County Court, denies that he had any part in an attempt to keep the Republican candidates off county offices off the county ballot.

Mr. Owens will not deny that in a conversation with Clarence Mathews, Chairman of the Mason County Republican committee, he informed Mr. Mathews that the various Republican candidates had not qualified for position on the ballot in that they had not filled their certificates of nomination.

Mr. Owens will not deny that he informed Mr. Mathews that his intention was called to the matter by Mr. H. C. Hawkins, Democratic candidate for Representative, who called for his certificate and that on September 23rd this certificate was filed and that the certificates of the various other Democratic nominees had been filed.

Mr. Owens will not deny that he informed Mayor Hermann that he had already certified the county ballots to the printer containing the names of both Democratic and Republican candidates.

Mr. Owens will not deny that he informed one of the Republican nominees, who applied for his nomination certificate, some time after the primary election, that it was not necessary for him to give to the nominee his certificate.

Mr. Owens will not deny that he has failed thus far to issue to the Republican nominees their certificates of nomination.

NEWPORT OFFICIALS ARE INDICTED BY THE GRAND JURY

Newport Mayor and Police Chief Accused as a Result of Ministers' Campaign to Clean-up Gambling.

Newport, Ky., October 15. — After dropping a letter into the mail box in front of 203 Pike street, Bromley, Ky., Friday night, Mrs. LuLu Willenberg, 32 years old, of Cynthiana, Ky., stood under an electric arched and attempted to end her life by drinking poison.

The indictment was brought about by ministers' alliance that began a crusade against gambling and other forms of vice that are said to have flourished unimpeded in Newport for two years. Chief of Police Bregel also was indicted.

Lieutenant John T. Kalfrat and six patrolmen in the Newport police department also were indicted.

Nonfeasance in office is the charge in each case, and the basis of the charges are that the mayor and the police officers permitted gambling.

The indictments come as a climax to the long crusade against gambling and other evils by a number of clergymen, led by Rev. E. R. Overly, of the Grace M. E. Church, and Rev. W. B. Haverty of the First Baptist church. The Good Citizenship League also was active in the crusade. The indictment against Mayor Hermann reads:

"He being duly elected, acting and qualified mayor of the city of Newport, did unlawfully, willfully allow, suffer and permit diverse persons to get up, manage, operate and conduct gambling in the city of Newport in violation of the law."

The indictments against the police officers, including Chief Bregel are similar in text. The patrolmen who were indicted are William Abbe, John Herren, Joseph Mahoney, Oney McLaughlin, Fred Taylor and John Newell.

When asked if he desired to make a statement regarding the indictment brought against him Mayor Hermann said:

"I knew about this indictment ahead of time and it was purely a political proposition forced on me. I haven't anything else to say at this time, but will prepare a statement which I will issue later."

Bregel, chief of police, declared he had nothing to say.

CYNTHIANA WOMAN TRIES SUICIDE AT BROMLEY

Husband Knocks Vial of Poison From His Wife's Hand as She Attempts To Drink Same Last Night.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 15. — After dropping a letter into the mail box in front of 203 Pike street, Bromley, Ky., Friday night, Mrs. LuLu Willenberg, 32 years old, of Cynthiana, Ky., stood under an electric arched and attempted to end her life by drinking poison.

The woman's husband, Alieri Willenberg, who followed her from the home of his brother, John Willenberg, in Bromley, knocked the bottle from her lips before she had swallowed all of the liquid. In doing so Willenberg spilled the poison over his wife's face and as a result she is at Booth's Memorial Hospital suffering from burns on the face and chest.

Some of the most prominent pulpit orators in the United States have agreed to take part in the conference. This is made possible for Mayaville through the co-operation of five other cities in this section who will hold their conference simultaneously with the local meeting. The speakers going from one city to the other for the various meetings.

One of the most prominent Bible students and best speakers in America will open the conference on Sunday and it will continue each day, the program being announced through the daily press. It is very important that the church and Sunday school workers attend all of these meetings and get all of the information possible from these well qualified authorities on much discussed Biblical truths.

All of the meetings will be absolutely free to all. A free will offering will be taken at each service to defray the expenses but if the expenses are not thus paid, there is a fund from which the deficiency is made.

SHIFTING RESPONSIBILITY.

The Daily Independent which has become very much a Democratic organ in the present campaign, recently paid a very high compliment to County Judge H. P. Purnell in a front page editorial in which that newspaper endeavored to shift to Judge Purnell much, if not all, of the blame of present road conditions in Mason county and charge that on the eve of the election Judge Purnell was taking from the Democratic candidate for County Judge his road platform.

Unwittingly, the Independent has paid this high compliment to Judge Purnell.

As a matter of fact Judge Purnell, during the past term, by virtue of his office as County Judge, has been chairman of the Mason Fiscal Court made up of three commissioners, of which one was Mr. A. L. Glascock, the Democratic nominee for County Judge. Those three Commissioners have had entirely within their power the county road program for the past four years. They are all three Democrats and Judge Purnell, alone is a Republican. If Judge Purnell as chairman without a vote on the road projects except in case of a tie was enabled to control the board of County Commissioners composed of three Democrats, he is certainly a most extraordinary man and a wizard.

If there is any blame for the failure of the Commission's system of handling the county's road system, that blame must be shared by the Democratic nominee for County Judge for during the whole of the four year term he has been a member of that Commission and by his own vote could have changed any matter in regard to the roads which came before the Fiscal Court.

Mr. Glascock is one-third responsible for the present general condition and Judge Purnell is alone responsible in the individual cases in which he was called to act. And in any case he is man enough to stand up under any criticism. It is not fair or just, however, that an attempt should be made to shift any burden real or imaginary which should be borne partly by Mr. Glascock as Commissioner entirely to the County Judge and the fair-minded and right thinking voters of Mason county will not be led astray by any such faulty reasoning which might be intended for that purpose.

These tactics are unfair and if Mr. Glascock would make a fair and efficient County Judge to pass impartially upon matters in which the rights of the people of Mason county are concerned, he will not countenance such pre-election propaganda in his behalf.

Mr. Glascock's qualifications for the office of County Judge lie in his record in public office as a County Commissioner and his success in managing a fortune left him by his wealthy parents.

Judge Purnell's qualifications for County Judge lie in his record in public office as a Legislator and County Judge and his success in rising to such honorable and responsible positions, by the vote of the good people of Mason county, from the ranks of the poor.

SQUANDERING INFLUENCE.

Are you squandering your influence?

A person may squander his or her money and perhaps do no injury to anyone, but no person can squander his or her influence and not do damage, often serious damage.

No man, no woman, is without influence. Every one of us, consciously or unconsciously, leads somebody else. Some of us, by reason of unusual endowments or possessions, sway the actions of many persons who have respect for us and confidence in our judgment.

In the present campaign how many of us, men and women, will squander our influence? How many of us, contrary to our better judgment, contrary to the dictates of an honest conscience, will so conduct ourselves that we will lead others who trust in us to do something which we know they should not do?

We all want good government. We all want the laws enforced. We all want lower taxes. We all want honest administration of public affairs. We all want efficient city and county officials. We all want good towns to live in and in which to rear our children.

But can we have these things unless we are as honest with ourselves as we would have others be with us? Can we have these things if we by our own actions influence trusting friends to give their support to men and to policies which we know in our hearts should not be supported?

The responsibilities of citizenship are sacred and should be so exercised.

Can we afford any time to squander our influence?

NO MORE RECESS.

There will be no further recesses of Congress, but efforts will be concentrated on an attempt to clear the legislative calendar in readiness for the regular session that convenes in December. Leaders have conferred with the President and have reached the decision that, with the exception of a few days at Thanksgiving, work will be vigorously pushed on the pending bills. That does not mean any change in the program that has been followed since the Congress convened in April, for at all times the utmost expedition has characterized the work of legislation. In spite of charges of the Democrats to the contrary, the Congress has a longer record of accomplishment for the time it has been in session than any other in the history of the country.

A GOOD TURN ELECTED HIM.

James Davis, for years Congressman from Missouri, told at a Washington Scout celebration the story of how a typical Scout Good Turn had elected him.

"One morning," he said, "when I was about 20, I was riding my horse into town when I met a boy who had been riding a mule loaded with a sack of corn. The sack had fallen off, and the boy was not able to put it back on single-handed.

"I dismounted, took off my coat, and put the boy and the corn back on the mule. Then I went on, and forgot all about it.

"Nearly twenty years later I was candidate for Congress in the primaries. I didn't have much chance in the enemy's country, but learned that same one there was very busy getting votes for me. I had no idea who he could be. In the end I was nominated by forty-seven votes.

"At the county mass meeting which followed to celebrate the victory a big, sturdy young man elbowed his way through the crowd to the speakers' stand and held out his hand.

"I don't suppose you know me," he said. And I admitted that I did not.

"Well," he continued, "you may remember a boy and a mule and a sack of corn in the road twenty years ago. Three men passed him before you came along, but you, the fourth, stopped to help the boy and the corn get back on that mule. I'm that boy; and I made up my mind that day that if I ever had a chance to pay you back for the good turn you did for me I would. My chance came, and I've made good on it. We gave you a majority of sixty-eight votes in our township."

"That one little good turn," said Congressman Davis, "elected me."

Mr. Davis is active in Scout work in Missouri.

On August 1, the per capita circulation for an estimated population of 108,226,000 persons in the United States was $53, which on September 1 had dropped to $52.41, on the basis of an estimated population of 108,315,000.

FALL ARMY WORM OUTBREAK IS CAUSING HEAVY DAMAGE.

Lexington, Ky. — With new outbreaks being reported almost daily fall army worms, which resemble the common spring army worms, are continuing to cause serious damage to field crops of all kinds in the state, according to additional warning sent out by Harrison Garman, entomologist at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. County Agents and farmers in all Kentucky counties have been warned to be on the lookout for the pests and take immediate steps to control them as soon as they make their appearance.

The most serious outbreaks of the pests have been reported from Carroll, Washington, Woodford, Scott and Fayette counties. In Carroll county corn fields were attacked by the pests, in many cases the blades being riddled and the worms working their way down among the rolled blades of the late plantings in a manner similar to that of the corn-eat worm. In Washington county various kinds of vegetation were attacked by the worms while in Fayette county rye and barley were the objects of attack. The insects are particularly fond of Hungarian millet, rye and alfalfa with the result that acres of these crops are sometimes ruined, according to the warning.

The insects appear so suddenly that most farmers are unprepared to cope with them, Mr. Garman said. Spraying field crops is only practicable if the insects occur in restricted areas in which case they may be sprayed with a solution made of one and one-half pounds of arsenate of lead powder in a barrel of water. Livestock should be kept off the sprayed areas for a time following the application, according to Mr. Garman, in order to prevent possibilities of poisoning. The worms may be burned out by the use of scattered straw or other dry material sprinkled with coal oil while the insects disappear into the ground is sometimes the only remedy. When a brood goes into the ground for a few hours the ears of a rat has been caught at Packerville, Conn., Joe Welch, who has caught full frogs of all pupation pinning to break up the earthen cells and expose them to the birds and poultry is sometimes helpful in controlling the insects. The species appears to be incompletely acclimated to Kentucky and as far as is known is only a summer visitor, cold weather apparently killing those left in the soil by the latest broods.

The insects which have just made their appearance are different pests from the common army worms, being distinguished from them by the yellow V-shaped mark on the front of the head, Mr. Garman said. They also are darker in color than the spring army worms. According to the warning, the fall army worms come from farther south during hot summers and become established and injurious in Kentucky during the fall. Although they appear later there is evidence showing that more than one brood appears before cold weather arrives and kills them. The first may appear as early as Aug. 6 and by the middle of September a second brood has sometimes appeared. A third sometimes appears in Kentucky as late as October if the weather remains mild.

MANY FARMERS SEE

BEST RAFM METHODS.

More than 75,000 farmers as well as a large number of interested city persons saw the best methods in a number of different farm practices by visiting the College of Agriculture exhibit at the Kentucky State Fair, according to reports made by those in charge of the exhibit. Other features conducted under the direction of the college which contributed toward the success of the fair were the junior livestock judging contest and the girls' demonstration team contest, both conducted for the first time and the exhibits made by club members in the various livestock classes. A number of the youngsters took prizes in the open competition with adults as well as in the classes provided especially for club members. The poultry standardization exhibit in connection with the poultry standardization campaign being conducted in the state by the college also attracted a large number of fair visitors and contributed its share toward the success of the poultry show.

The Boone county team composed of Robert Clore, Franklin Huey and Marvin Kendall and coached by County Agent W. D. Sutton took first place in the junior judging contest in which 26 county teams competed. The highest scoring boy in the contest was Roy O'Neill, Carroll county. All three of the Boone county team members were among the ten highest scoring boys, Robert Clore being second, Marvin Kendall fourth and Franklin Huey tied for tenth place with Richard C. Mattingly of Marion county. The contest was considered highly successful by M. L. Hall, assistant state leader of junior agricultural club work and superintendent of it and plans are being made to continue it next year. The three highest scoring boys including Roy O'Neill, Robert Clore and James Walter, Mercer county, will compose the Kentucky junior livestock judging team, according to Mr. Hall.

First honors in the girls' demonstration team contest went to Simpson county which was represented by a team composed of Gladys Haliburton, Ina Lewis and Evelyn Cummings. The team demonstrated canning and was coached by Miss Maude Megular, the Simpson county home demonstration agent. Eleven county teams competed in the contest.

New York. — Charles N. Peck, of Oyster Bay, has the record for commuting in this part of the country. Eighteen solid years he has spent en route to and from Manhattan and his Long Island home. In 886, he began it as a half-year pastime and then six years later settled down as a permanent commuter. Since that time he has travelled back and forth six days a week without a break. And he still looks halo and hearty.

A laurel wreath was placed on the marble bust of Jenny Lind in the Aquarium the other day. Just offhand, the Aquarium might not seem the logical place to honor the singer, but in those Jenny Lind days, it was Castle Garden, where she established her fame. The wreath was the gift of Frieda Hempel, now in Europe, who appeared as the "Swedish Nightingale" in the historic centennial concert in this country.

This is poison ivy time for New Yorkers. Watch the most metropolitan looking of all the people in the subway crowds and four cases out of ten you observe pathetically swollen faces or hands. We are all going to the country and the woods once a week or so nowadays and those of us who were born and reared close to the city pavements are the ones who are too innocent to suspect any pretty green vines or leaf that we find there. "Nature is kind" is the illusion that guides them—until their first smazied visit to the doctor after the poison gets its work in.

It was some years ago that I found I had kidney trouble and suffered severely with it. After a long course of Doan's Kidney Pills I became well and had no trouble for many years. Just recently I noticed my kidneys were again out of order and my system was generally weak. I knew it was a return of the trouble. I did not lose any time in getting a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and they have given me the same good results and I consider them a wonderful remedy." (Statement given November 15, 1916.)

On November 22, 1920, Mr. Bramel said: "I couldn't recommend a better remedy than Doan's Kidney Pills after the benefit they were to me when I was about down and out with the worst form of kidney trouble. I gave a statement many years ago regarding the merit of this wonderful remedy. My cure has been a lasting one."

AVOID THE PENALTY That Goes On All COUNTY TAXES

On and after December 1st. Don't put off paying taxes until the last minute. It means delay to you and in some instances you may be compelled to lose an hour or two of your valuable time. Come early. You have to pay taxes, and in so doing you may save yourself the fitting, modest, and young-maidenly places for the girl to step from the school room to the world of society. Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney's plan to introduce her daughter Barbara at a tea has caused such surprise that the society group say she will reconsider and make it a dance instead.

—NY—

Tea parties are among the things of the past. Never did New York drink more tea, probably, than in these past few years, but at an institution, taking place in drawing rooms with invited guests, the tea has become almost extinct. Debantes don't even make their debuts upon such occasions, which always used to be considered the fitting, modest, and young-maidenly places for the girl to step from the school room to the world of society. Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney's plan to introduce her daughter Barbara at a tea has caused such surprise that the society group say she will reconsider and make it a dance instead.

—NY—

They were alert, energetic, girls of twenty or so; just a bit extreme in getting up, maybe, but not remarkably so. One almost automatically listens when that type talks because their conversation is usually frank enough to be worth hearing. "And now of all times," exclaimed one aggrievedly, "Why on earth couldn't they wait another year before talking this seven inches from the floor stuff? Do you know that it cost me exactly $64 to have my ankles reduced to graceful proportions so I'd look smart in my skirts?"

It's according to how you look at it whether or not it pays to advertise. John Madigan believes it's too dangerous. Seven long years ago his wife left him flat, throwing an aluminum kettle back at him as she left. Two years later while he was motorman on the subway he had a glimpse of her.

She had a large, strong man with her and when her right-hand husband introduced himself the large, strong man, threw him on the floor. He got discouraged then and after a while decided he might find a gentler lady to share his life. He did. But, though gentle, she was firm. No bigamy trial was going to wreck her career, and she insisted that he couldn't take his wife's death in the meantime for granted, seven years or not. He must advertise. He did. And the kettle-throwing wife answered the ad, energetic and alive as ever.

New York has refused to be shocked by "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife" even though New Haven thought it needed protection. After all these years of neighborliness, New Haven hasn't got as well acquainted with our town as it should. The try-out of the play was held there and the constable closed the theater. The courts let it open again, however, in spite of the officer's explanation that even though it wasn't to be in New Haven long, the constable thought New York ought to be looked out for. The cynical thought maybe the press agent might have had a little conversation with the constable and persuaded him to consider the law out-raged. But Inn Claire, the eighth wife, denied the need of any such measures at that on Broadway.

SUNDAY AUTO TRAVEL GREATEST EAST TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

Bureau of Public Roads Announced the Day and Time of the Heavyest of Traffic.

If you are going on an automobile trip an evening to avoid all possible trouble you should go on Tuesday or Wednesday. Such is the conclusion reached from a study of a traffic census taken recently by the Bureau of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture, on one of the most traveled roads in the United States. If you want to go at an hour when there will be the least traffic, start between 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning.

Traffic increases in amount steadily from Wednesday to Saturday, the census shows, and then jumps into big volume on Sunday. The volume on Sunday is about twice that on Tuesday or Wednesday. On Monday there is a decided drop from the Sunday figures and on Tuesday the lowest ebb is reached.

There is less traffic on the road between 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning than at any other time of day. From 3 to 5 there is a slight increase; then a steady climb until 11. Between 11 o'clock and 1 there is a slight drop, and then an increase again until the peak is reached between 2 and 3. After 3 o'clock traffic drops slightly until 7 when the decrease becomes more pronounced. By midnight traffic has almost reached its lowest point.

Ninety per cent. of the day's traffic, the census shows, rolls over the road between 7 a. m. and 9 p. m., and 52 per cent. between 1 p. m. and 8 p. m.

GRAND JURY ORDERED TO PHONE VANCE'S MURDER.

Bardstown. — Investigation into the death of Charles A. Vance, Nelson county farmer was ordered by Circuit Judge E. A. McCandless in his instructions to the grand jury.

Judge McCandless said he had no clew as to the identity of the person who shot Mr. Vance as he lay asleep at his home the night of August 18. Allie Nolan Vance, the 14-year-old daughter of the slain man, is held under $2,500 bond to await the action of the grand jury. Mrs. Vance, his widow, recently was dismissed on a charge in connection with the murder.

"I always seem doomed to furs in summer and gauze for the winter months," laughed the little ingenue, Miss Broadhurst longs to do wild stunts in comedies. Her wish was partially realized when recently she fell off the pier at San Pedro and again the next day when she plunged into a mud hole.

Mildred Davis, who has been ill with tonsillitis, has returned to work at the Hal E. Roach Studios to act in a sequence in "A Sailor-Made Man." Harold Lloyd's latest comedy vehicle, Miss Davis, who was threatened with diphtheria, is still far from well.

Henderson. — While W. L. Hughes, general manager of the Southland Coal Company, was at a theater some one stole his automobile. Three hours later the car was found wrecked in a ditch five miles from the city on the Moline Road.

RAILROAD STRIKE APPEARS CERTAIN, SAY THE LEADERS

Nothing Else To Do but to Strike Says Leader in Commending On the Railroad Situation.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Leaders of the railroad brotherhoods assembled here today to consider the challenge of the railway executives in proposing a further wage reduction of approximately ten per cent. in the face of the strike vote just authorized by the railwaymen because of the 12 per cent. reduction of last July.

The brotherhood chiefs indicated that an immediate walkout—at least on some roads—was under consideration, following yesterday's conference of the railway men's leaders with the executives, after the executives had announced that they would apply to the Railroad Labor Board for a further wage reduction.

"If I were a betting man," said W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, "I would bet there will be a strike."

"The final decision is only the matter of a few days," said Lee. "What else is there left to do? Since the men have already voted for a walkout, I don't see how the roads can have the nerve to suggest another cut."

Thirty-day notice of the contemplated wage reduction, which is technically a return to the wage prevailing prior to the increase of July, 1920 is expected to be announced today or Monday by the railroad executives. Reports were current today that the railroads would announce the wage cut effective in 30 days, without reference to the mediation by the Labor Board.

The official announcement of the result of the executives' decision on the wage reduction explained that the benefit of the proposed cut shall, with the concurrence of the Interstate Commerce Commission, be passed on to the public in the reduction of existing rates."

PRAYING COLONELS WELCOMED IN CINCINNATI

The Cincinnati Times-Star says:

Looking as fit as the prehistoric fiddle, wiry, muscular and bronzed, the famous Centre College eleven of Danville, Ky.—the Praying Colonels—arrived in Cincinnati at 11 a. m. Saturday prepared for their football battle with the St. Xavier team at Redland Field in the afternoon.

Probably no football team in the country has been so much in the heartless spotlight of publicity in the past two years as the Praying Colonels. As a consequence it seemed that about every disengaged football fan in Cincinnati was down to the Grand Central depot to suitably welcome the sturdy warriors of Charlie Moran.

IT'S A DISGRACE.

To go through life a failure when you possess success qualities.

To be anything less than a real man or a real woman.

To fail to do your best and look your best.

To have only half tried to make good.

To put into work you are paid to do only half-hearted effort; to perform it carelessly or with indifference.

To do things that are not morally honest or honorable, even though you may act within the law.

To go about with a scowl on your face, when a smile can do so much good.
